Droiden sided with the Axis, then just as swiftly, sided with the Allies and conquered Germany, was neutral during the Cold War, and the majority of the population speaks English.

Banshieks are actually created to be inhumanly engaging.

- Banshees tend to be tall, slender, and curvy, whereas Banshieks are tall, muscular, and broad-shoulder.
- If they need a Blacklight purity of seventy-fifth or higher, they'll shapeshift in a similar method as the Evolved.
- All others will create temporary changes, or will alter their look however not produce biomass weapons, or the other way around. Most of them have black, brown, or red hair. Green, brown, or blue eyes are common, though violet, red, gold, or black eyes also are not uncommon.
- Most Banshees and Banshieks are capable of utilizing some type of magic, because of their supposed role to support their Evolved mate by healing them when battles and serving them domestically.

In their setting, the USSR is/was a leader in genetic engineering, and the PAS has adapted some of their cloning processes to genetically engineer a more egalitarian society by enforcing a racial standard and outlawing natural conception, with very strict repercussions.

Tohorin's government maintains a strict regimen of surveillance with regards to its citizens, especially those found to have suspicious mannerisms or ties to foreigners. This is, in large part, due to the USSR's influence on their nation, and they continue to maintain close ties with the superpower.

Thorn, the star which is the center of the Godulan Control Framework, has been...tampered with. It now inhibits communication and sensors within 25 AUs, and is also home to many long-range bombardment platforms. It is thus a death trap, littered with the remains of countless foolish fleets.

The Primordial Era starts with the ascension of various realms that are described as "godly", around a land called "Yverde". This sparked the War of the Gods, which the Kingdom of Heaven ended up winning, cutting off the rest of the Godly realms from Yverde.

Nice wiki style factbooks though ill give you that. Also the land mass you live in is very small and cold which makes me think you must import a lot of stuff form neighboring countries. Yet you don't state many nearby countries.

They managed to secure independence by simultaneously beating back the entirety of NATO during a two-front war, forcing the US in particular into a Dunkirk-esque situation wherein they had to leave the majority of their equipment behind. While utilizing trench warfare and WW2 tactics. Alrighty then.
