They have two/three political parties: a reformist Socialist Party, and a Communist Party split into two factions; a traditional revolutionary Marxist Leninist line; and one which has placed the ecology and environmentalism as its focal point.

SELSKA IS THE ROOT TRAIN, BROTHER!

When the student movement spills across the Katastrophestaat, one underground shelter erupts into a refugee rebellion. Co-opted by an eccentric Eco-National Bolshevik Afrocentrist and his posse, Selska is the last holdout of a people just hoping to survive - but can this revolution last a changing overground?

The country's capital is the smartly-named Capitol City, while it's most populated city is, sadly, not named Huge City. It has a population of 746 millions and a GDP of 53.7 trillion which really isn't that much when you think about it, though still higher than OTL US's GDP in comparison.

In their world, the Norman conquest of England was less of a conquest and more of a war between a Norman invasion, the Danish/Anglo-Saxon kingdom, and a Norwegian invasion, in England, that instead of having been won by the Normans, the war was won by the Danish/Anglo-Saxons.

(Please correct me if I'm wrong, I'm not very good at reading English - though I do like English)

Leo's funeral procession involved a massive statue-mannequin in his likeness being made to walk down the streets. That's quite the extravagant procession, if you ask me.

Unlike most mainstream-religions, the Ghesites believe that the universe was not created by their goddess ; it has always existed, and the Mother is some sort of immortal being who has existed from a very long time.

The supercarrier Majestic's esteemed captain is a very integral part of his ship, though the designers didn't plan it that way. This is funny to me.

Although the chief 'death diety' Flensing Wind is often thought of as a psychopomp, it is actually far more akin to an Anubis-like figure, which prepares the body and soul for the afterlife.
