South Reinkalistan is a massive, ecologically-diverse nation notable for its roving student militias and widespread hatred for the elderly. In the midst of a room-temperature cultural revolution that's lost its momentum, the Party carefully plans its next move. As the brittle bones of fragile empires begin to crack beneath their own weight, history's symphony reaches crescendo pitch. The future is all but certain.

There is a significant and interesting deal of content to be derived from the process of bloviating, extrapolating, non-concisely stating, expounding, discussing, analyzing, and otherwise examining the writing of a piece of literature such as a dispatch, account, factbook, reference, or other form of published material on NationStates.net in order to determine its literary worth and its status as content to be consumed by an audience. By creating lengthy replies communicating in a complete manner without any possible vagarity we necessarily sacrifice unnecessary conciseness and increase measures such as word count and length of post to assure the nation we respond to that we have in fact read their content past the first line even if we have in fact not.

The fact remains that these sorts of posts, while offensive and often symptomatic of a culture on this site that doesn't even read beyond the first line, are still superior in quality even if only due to their quantity to one-sentence or one-line answers tbh.

I mean, you can at least parse a witty one-liner. Sometimes I can't even figure out what those longer posts are talking about and practically have a stroke trying to understand what they're writing about.

Ugh, yes...why. Just why. Why do you have to capitalize it? It makes it seem less natural as part of the slang as a society. I don't capitalize "lit" or "yeet," but I do capitalize "Chad" because it's a name/country. But I don't go to Work or School as a Professor or Trucker or whatever.

Uh, I'd like to mention that a lot of spies in fiction are the glamourized HUMINT types. Not anonymous clerks, SIGINT people or button pushing recon pilots. But IIRC somebody mentioned that writing about some guy sitting on their ass listening to bugs in an embassy isn't too exciting.

A traumatized, but recovering, MT-PMT constitutional monarchy consisting of a personal union of Prussia and Poland. A land of rampant gun ownership, governmental schizophrenia, militias with enough heavy weapons to turn an armored division into a badly-shaken battalion of light infantry, and terrified USAF personnel counting down the days until they rotate back home.

Weaponization rate(14 weapons per person) and crime rate(1.77 crimes per hour) both canon. Cry about it.
