I guess America got a Rich Girl Catgirl President or something who was arrested by the former president who liked coal? And arresting involved her being transformed into a catgirl? I uhm... I don't quite get it but that's about all I learned

Also, there General Liberal and General Conservative parties. I don't know how are they different from the main Libs and Cons.

What is now Waisnor was for the longest time a dominion of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth until it was transferred to Russia during the Third Partition of Poland. Initially the site of several battles during the French Invasion of Russia, it was given autonomy under the Governorate General of Grodno in 1811. This autonomy was revoked when Grodno tried to revolt for independence in 1832.

This you?

Slavery in the Caribbeans

Caribbean Plantations required millions of slaves

European colonies in the Caribbean were primarily based on plantation economies and as such required a large workforce of manual labourers. While Spaniards used the native population of their colonies as a workforce in their plantations, hard labour and widespread European diseases meant that a large number of their populations were wiped out within the first century of European colonisation. As such Spain -and later other colonial empires- took advantage of the slave trade in Africa. Slaves bought or captured in the Bay of Guinea were brought to the Caribbean from the early 16th century until 1902. The majority of slaves were brought to the Caribbean colonies between 1701 and 1810, though this continued within the Confederate-occupied Caribbean until the Caribbean Revolution ended in 1902. British, French and Dutch colonists brought up to 3,765,200 slaves to the Caribbean between 1492 and 1870.

Abolitionists in the Americas and Europe became vocal opponents of the slave trade in late 18th and throughout the 19th century. Importation of slaves was outlawed by most European powers within the first half of the 19th century, with some imperial powers such as the British and French Empire putting a blockade on Africa to block any possible slave trade. Within European Caribbean colonies, it took until late 19th century for slaves to be freed, while the majority of slaves in the Caribbean remained so until the Caribbean Revolution outlawed slavery in 1902.

What more do you want me to say? Once again in another timeline European colonialism has rendered a local populace into a slave race. Its weird that its happened again.

Cuba was of interest to southern Democrats because of its institutionalised slavery, and they believed that adding Cuba to the Union as a slave state would have brought some balance to the brewing free vs slave state conflicts. The slave rebellion on Cuba gave the US more incentive to act, whether diplomatically or militarily. Spain sold Cuba to America for two major reasons - Spain short on money, and war with the USA was a possibility. A few years after its annexation, Cuba was turned into a slave state to balance out the admission of the free state of Oregon.

A couple of things! ^^

- The passive camouflage on the soldiers being for redundancy, and I guess it is a bit of a fashion statement, to paraphrase it. 🤔 The passive ones helped, of course, but the fact that they have active camouflage is scary. Imagine just being the soldier of the enemy nation of Albali, then you suddenly get whacked by a ghost. You swear you saw it, you were not high, or drunk, or a combination of the any. You told your army buddies, they laugh it off, then they got knocked out too.

- And this one! "Under Roulon law, all citizens are obligated to serve four years in the armed forces, followed by reservist duty for a further ten years. Reservists train for two to three weeks per year." And here I thought the Singapore Armed Forces (SAF) OOCly was a bit too much with the 2 years. I wonder if it will be fun as the factbook said. My only hope is that they don't haze new members (I know SAF can't do it, other than just scolding us left, right, and center - which is normal, anyway), so yeah. I also like that they can deny the pledge with just the inability to get promoted.

Instead of having conventional party names, like "Social Democratic Party" or "Conservative Party", they have a number of "courts", and each court has its own colour, logo and ideology. Do people just memorise which court is which, instead of knowing a party's political stance by its name?

Val Z: In their world, the population hit a minimum at around 500k in late 1998 following planetwide bombardment, where before the population was just shy of 6 billion. This number rebounded in the following 5 decades, reaching 7.5 billion in 2055 where Mars was also colonised, and reaching 14.3 billion in 2085 which I presume is the modern day. Impressive recovery, I must say.
