The country has 'accessible' civil rights, is classified as 'democratic' in terms of political rights and its economy is, at least for the most part, state-owned.

The largest festival on the island of Drew Durnnil is National Paintbrush Day, where citizens gather at a river called the Mævin Bæñksë to celebrate the Paintbrush Festival.

Summary: Socialist, pacifist island nation with its own language that looks like you put all Nordic languages in a blender which despite having a bit of military strength also bans any form of firearms including water guns.

AN:

- Antarctica has become warmer as with the rest of the world, hence there is now massive forest in Antarctica.
- They do not have usual day/night rhythm but rather that the summer is one long day and winter is one long night.
- King penguins aaaa <3
- Their people are super nice and kind.
- Their culture is a cross between many real life culture, which makes sense because all are immigrants from every part of the world. In turn, this creates a culture unique to this place.
- Their fashion tends to be unisex.

The formerly wartorn nation keeps a facade of normalcy and order while enjoying the societal and cultural decadence that marks the new Roaring Twenties. The paranoid authoritarian government tries its best to uphold order in the face of uncertainty, while its people want nothing more than a breathing space. It should be considered that while Zitragrad is by no means an 'Old' country, it is not young either. Its pre-21 population only slightly outnumbers its old population, and the majority of those are males, which makes later procreation somewhat... problematic.

AN: Of Guyana's 0.7 million population, the closest thing to a military is its Defense Force, a 80,000-something military that is made of former Royal Armed Forces personnel, Soviet attaches and eccentric Americans who came to Guyana alongside Mr. Jones. Then there is the Temple's Red Brigade, the 'armed wing' of the People's Temple, which is planning on killing anyone that doesn't drink the Kool-Aid responsible for the theo-ideological purity of Guyana.

Their current monarch, King Gustav IV, ascended the throne in 1987 after his father, Albert III, was assassinated. While assassinations aren't exactly all that odd, especially during the 1980s, the assassination of a European constitutional monarch though, makes it definitely interesting.

For some incomprehensible reason, Israel's flag and Coat of Arms includes the Cross of Jerusalem, an overly offensive Catholic symbol that has no place in civilized society much less the flag of the people its ideology has hurt the most. Also, -to follow- apparently Israel recognizes 'Aelia Capitolina' as a legitimate name for its capital and Syria Palestina as a legitimate name for its land... both of which are weird.

The Allied democratic Hatsunia won a sort of cultural victory in East Asia, allowing it to form alliances with Korea and other neighbors in time...instead of pillaging, enslaving and raping...as fascist China was the "bad guy" of their timeline. Ironically enough, this has led to there being no taboo over nuclear weapons in Hatsunia...albeit its use is that of a deterrent and it can only be inferred that they, as a respectable nation, would ignore the First Strike taboo, something they certainly didn't do during the Cold War.

One day, Comrade Stalin was saved by his comrades and he asked that person who saved him and that person talks of a supernatural voice on their head. Stalin now contrary to the Marxist-Leninist framework of scientific materialism decides "Fuck it, now the supernatural is now real!"

And so an alt history where the Cold War between the USSR and the USA is marked by supernatural forces on both sides begins.

One of the most significant cultural holidays celebrated by the Antarcticans is Diwali, also known as the festival of lights. Amusingly and perhaps highly appropriately, it falls right on the Antarctic winter solstice.

It would indeed be dark.

Antarcticans respectfully greets another by bowing, similar to that of the Japanese, but at a much more normal pace. They may also wave, hug, or do other kinds of gestures in less formal situations and especially if they know the other person well. Ninja'd.
