Have you heard this one yet Azrael? This one's pretty freaking sweet. That guitar beat when it kicks in more....and that 'drop'{'?'}' right afterwards.

And interesting random fact: I just realized that the end of this song, the last song on the album, ends in a way where it could easily flow into the first song of the album.

Yeah, that transition at around 1:30 was pretty sick. I really liked the song from that point on. And yeah that's cool how the album ends how it begins.

I've probably posted about 180 days of the last 6 months listening to music:P

And I'm not really exaggerating.

Unless, you mean, total music play time. I've had music playing about every day for the last 6 months (Or year, really, and maybe beyond. Except while on vacation I guess, though even then I listen to music while down there a lot.). But even then, it's still probably around 60 to 90 days of pure time of music playing. Some days of Minecraft had no music (Until I started to listen to music while playing Minecraft), and I do go afk a lot. But my music still plays....if that counts. Even while I'm sleeping a lot.

Agent Fresco-Yellow Nights

Yeah, I mean total music playtime. As of that post, I was at a grand total of 50.7 days total, almost 7 hours per song average and 1.7 days for one song.

The Shadow Of The Mountain - Chris de Burgh

I don't really have any accurate tracking systems, but geez, that's a lot ☐ All I know is total time of music I have (Even though Spotify isn't entirely accurate with it's time. If it goes to a day, it only says "Days" and not the hours as well).

My local files playlist has 1,258 songs (to which a vast amount I don't pay attention to, and I've had the thought of just adding everything from my dads computer onto mine to someday go through), and is 3 days long. My Post-Rock playlist is at 173 songs (Only 4 per album, though there's still a lot I need to add), and is at 23 hours....clearly Post-Rock songs are longer then my typical music.

Eh, I don't care about tracking how much music I've listened to. It's not like there's a competition or something.

I just take the Name, Time and Plays of the song from iTunes and put them in an excel document. I then add a few columns to calculate the total and the grand total. I also have a few things near the bottom to calculate the averages and totals in something other than seconds.

I don't really care either, it's just kinda nuts seeing HOW much the totals are sometimes, in hours and song count....and my song count has jumped a lot in the last year apparently (not counting the pointless local files stuff I have)

Have you heard this one, Azrael? I didn't know how much of the band you've actually heard. This one was kind of a pleasant surprise when I heard it while partly being asleep. Mainly at about 1:25.

Agent Fresco-Paused.

The more I actually listen to these guys, the more I realize that, I believe I can get used to all of their songs. At first, there was some songs I was kinda "Eh, not bad but not sure I can like as much as others", but they are all growing on me.

Hmm. I've made a shift to his softer songs over the past week or so.

This now, because I am not listening to any music and need something in the background.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.
