Due in large part to its large blobby nature, the Germanian Empire has, with a population of 164.7 million, the 4th largest population in the world, beaten only by their worlds China and India (which both have universally always been densely populated) as well as the United States. I am assuming if its population is piled with that of its vassals, it would beat the United States as well.

The Confederate States of the Caribbean actually seceded from the CSA.

The RCAS is a combination of Jeffersonian republicanism, white nationalism, and syndicalism when it comes to their ideology.

Portugal, led by an exiled Franco why? wasn't salazar bad enough? Why torture my country this way? launched an initially succesfull invasion of Republican Spain in a preemptive attack to prevent Spain from joining the comitem. However, the Soviet Union launched an all out attack in iberia effortlessly crushing the exhausted portuguese and spanish armies as well as the british expeditionary forces. A 24 months long occupation followed where the Soviets tried to convince the iberian peoples that their brand of communism was the ultimate stage of humanity's history.

Despite their designation as a Church, one might find the label to be something of a mild misnomer given that they don't operate in the quite the way we're used to seeing theocracies. Rather than a simple stand-in for a monarchy with heavy religious and ceremonial aesthetics, they are as much of a Hanseatic-type confederation of city-states as they are a theocratic state, with many cities associating with and paying tribute to the Church and being allowed to run largely autonomously outside of the aforementioned tribute and contribution to the Church's war and raiding efforts.

They're set in the Strangereal universe, and situated on the northern tip of the Osean continent. Despite being located in what is essentially Osea's Nunavut, a mostly frozen wasteland with few accommodations for human settlement, they somehow maintain a population of over 67 million people.

I have come to the realization that 'Kaiserreich' is apparently a alternate history fictional aesthetic much like Steampunk or Mecha.

Weiss, their PM, is rightly regarded as a wise mentor and nationwide guiding figure, in great part because she has amassed considerable knowledge over many topics she has witnessed and experienced over eons of existence. That is no typo, she is +3.5 billion years old, even if there have been lapses of dreamlike meditative inaction. As a result, she's nicknamed the "Mother of Victoria".

So, after Japan pretty much abandoned the Germans to do their own shenanigans, Hitler was forced to invade Germany on its own, while they did conquer Poland, they were left with casualties so high it'd make Command and Conquer AI look humble. And they lost valuable forces that could've been used to take over, for example, France.

In their universe's alternate World War II, where the Nazis never come to power and the Soviets were the aggressor power, Portugal and the rest of the Western Europe was occupied by Soviet forces. This occupation was mercifully short for Portugal, lasting a mere two years before resistance elements overthrew the communist occupation government, although they were replaced by Salazar and eventually Franco under UN supervision. Despite having died of natural causes on paper, the two gunshot wounds to his head strike one as having been part of some assassination plot. But that can't be right, the blue helmets would never do that...Would they?

The ~~ays~~ Greys/Zeta Reticulans are not only real but they genetically engineered several races in the remote past, including the Remulians and possibly even humanity. As a show of gratitude for being their stellar precursors, the Remulians saved the Greys by building them subterranean habitats when they were in danger of an extinction-level event.

Despite their government officially being a semi-federal semi-constitutional monarchy, they've actually been ruled by a military dictatorship for the past fifteen years due to the military government's refusal to give up power after the war claiming that there are still threats to their safety and security.
