Their time zone is UTC+1, which through research, their territory is just outside the borders of the UTC+1 in real life, so this is rather interesting.

They control the Ultima Endless, the entirety of existence, the universe, and the dark nothing surrounding it.

They also don't have an embassy with us which they and everyone should have

They are a greek senatorial nation ruled by an autocratic leader named the "Hegemon of the Senate". The Hegemon typically makes the laws, goes to war, and performs the major functions of the nation; they also tend to rule until their death.

First of all: your factbook is amazingly formatted and I look forward to reading more thoroughly.

The most interesting, standout concept was their obliteration of self. A true collectivist ethos that is more than just economic principle.

It's mostly the fact that for the military and for officers, it's mostly due to a tradition (I assume) that they use old weaponry, the one that you will most likely find in pre-Industrial Eras.

(Also, most of the pictures of your weapons no longer exist, like the Bruanautomat 334. At least on my side, it's not loading. So... yeah, just a heads up.)

It's not that our legislature "works" by coalitions, it's just that sometimes parties caucus with the majority for the purposes of better committee assignments.

The house of Daveed was founded by Jacob Daveed who was titled as the first Emperor of the nation. It wasn't until 1746, when a Republican Revolution overthrew the house and its final ruler, Samuel I.

Deutschess Kaiserreich suffers from corruption, or at least their postal service, which used to be used to steal goods and smuggle illegal objects until a sting operation on postal officials hampered it.

The majority of those in the exclave are known to be very irreligious. Most of them are either agnostic (believing there is no way of proving God exists), atheists, apathetic, or irreligious. There is only a very small community that follows the old earth beliefs of Taoism, Abrahamic, or Dharmic.
