I've been going through Gorillaz, Demon Days, and Plastic Beach in order. The first still holds up the best, even if it is a bit weak near the end.

Good track... I never got into Half-Life 2 though. I own it, I've played it, but I just don't like it.

The Valve composer is great. Pretty much all their soundtracks are cool and creative.

Yeah. Well, I played through all the Half-Life games years ago, and I often used cheats and mods like S-Mod to create lots of enemies and weird weapons. S-Mod also adds a lot of new enemies, missions and commands and stuff- it's quite fun. I usually play TES games like Skyrim; with a billion mods, these days. I end up spending more time with the mods than actually finishing the game.

As a shooter, HL2 is very eh. The gravity gun is fun but the game generally feels kinda clunky. The original is a lot tighter and more enjoyable in that regard. However HL2 is much more atmospheric and "intense" the opening 40 minutes are so are insanely good, you really do feel like you're being pursued.

we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

I LOVE the soundtrack of Portal 1. Very damn good ambient tracks. So chill and relaxing.

I never finished HL1 either. But my experience was that Half-Life >>>>> Half-Life 2. But the overall idea of one-man-army-scientist feels kinda ridiculous.
