My idea for doing it is just making up flavours as I go along.

I had a similar premise for a slave thread a while back, funnily enough. The idea was that people would send me raw material and I'd turn it into animated golems with whatever specifications they asked for. Some people got pretty damn creative with their orders, I have to say, but the Cabinet of Curiosities always delivered.

As you can probably tell from my use of past tense, though, it didn't last very long - it never even reached the second page. I guess the kind of people who normally use slave threads prefer the simple "money -> slaves" formula over fancy soul transplantation and matter shaping. :pensive:

South Reinkalistan is a massive, ecologically-diverse nation notable for its roving student militias and widespread hatred for the elderly. In the midst of a room-temperature cultural revolution that's lost its momentum, the Party carefully plans its next move. As the brittle bones of fragile empires begin to crack beneath their own weight, history's symphony reaches crescendo pitch. The future is all but certain.

one i fail to comprehend, is the derivation of "centrally planned economy" from a refusal to worship symbolic value or hate logic.

I have no interest in military roleplay, so I mostly try and find something interesting that isn't a wedding/feast on the NS sub-forum. I rarely succeed.

The repeated nature of the photo just keeps going until it turns into a static singularity. It calls me, ever closer to its icy cold grasp. I stare into it more intently, wanting to unlock its secrets. Being inexplicably drawn to the static singularity, I press my face against the screen of my computer. Then I hear a voice, faint and fleeting, but most certainly there. My heart skips a beat and I hold my breath. I hear it draw a breath and speak once more.

"Sus" I hear it say.

I suddenly feel a clarity I'd never felt before and felt the power of all the universe enter my body. I began to shake uncontrollably and let out a scream as it coursed through my veins. Then everything became dark.

I don't know what happened in the three hours that I was out, all I know is that I woke up hanging naked by the legs from the shower curtain bar and I had made a milkshake.
