They appear to be small territorially, but then the whole parallel universe shtick kicks in and they're suddenly larger, just not in the traditional sense.

Italians refer to a person born in Stanier as Stanierese (or an equivalent thereof), which makes one wonder why the English translation is "Stanierian". We don't call a person from Malta "Maltian" after all.

Unusually for a Nord, their High King is a graduate of the College of Winterhold, and a reasonably competent mage (specializing in Destruction and Alteration, probably since those are the go-to disciplines for a battlemage).

For an FT nation, their military is small but its individual equipment is incredibly powerful...having standardized particle disruptor type things and FTL projectile launchers.

The Republican Era (1905-1959) is near-unanimously viewed as the "Dark Era" of Las Palmeras, during which the island nation was governed by a client republic of the United States of America and suffered the same fate that every single other southern neighbor of the United States did during the era -that is to say, military intervention and socio-political interference in domestic affairs by the American government, etc.

Their majority, the Nordic people, have an unclear origin. They may have originated when Kyne gave life to them at the summit of the Throat of the World(according to Nordic religion) or are descendants of the Ehlnofey(according to many elf theoreticians).

The Synnian Islands were more or less uninhabited until 1961, when tycoon Maxmilian Synne established a presence in the remote archipelago to avoid the effects of the Cold War. He was the first of a wave of newcomers to the islands, who arrived for mostly the same reasons, although the new country had an intensely anti-Soviet stance.

The nation itself happens in a world where Climate Change has definitely gone too far, rendering Antarctica habitable. The nation itself is home to about 66 million people, and due to a series of peace treaties, requires no standing army. The religion of the nation is a reformed branch of Hinduism- With a humanistic attitude, focusing on a love for personal and societal freedom.

While trains named in Uvoan sound absolutely and utterly gibberish to the layman foreigner, there is in fact a magic to them: They are organized in a system of "Origin City / End City / Type of Train / Type of Engine/ Priority / Departure Time (24 Hour) / Scheduled Arrival Time/ # of days under travel"

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

They've decided to go one step further along the route of making ship-shaped EVA units with the HNS Snark - featuring FT-style energy shielding and freeform EM induction (because actual railguns were too boring). Also made from spooky hell juice.

Ninja'd, except the AN doesn't have any factbooks either. Saves me the trouble of re-replying, I guess.
