but it's actually faceist meaning it's against people with faces. Everyone in Guyana is ordered to have their face removed. Wister Milson gets his face removed as an example and dies.

New man is named Walter and lives in Nuuk, but Nuuk has been airlifted to Guyana due to climate change,

I dunno, Terry Pratchett?

Walter gets on the wrong plane and is now in the worst hell on Earth. A place no man should ever set foot, no matter how badly they have sinned. A cruel, unjust place, with cold, heartless people watching as you suffer in eternal agony.

Prince Phillip stared out into the sunset. Somehow, he'd done it. He had achieved immortality. As centuries pass and all the people he knew would grow old and die, he'd yet remain. Civilisations will rise and fall, new orthodoxies would spurn their devout believers into terrible wars and inspiring literature. Technology would advance, heralding after many troubled centuries into a prosperous, eternal community of man and alien, living in harmony and enlightenment. And he would be there for all of it, watching from the sidelines, occasionally adopting a new identity to tip a hand on the scales of history just for the fun of.

All of that though, would be in the future. First he decided to go get some pizza and think about what immortality would mean.

New Man.
