It's a long way to Mukumbura,
It's a long way to jawl.
It's a long way from your hometown,
But you can have yourselves a ball,
With your mukkas!

Goodbye, Bulawayo,
Tot siens, Cecil Square,
It's a long, long way to Mukumbura,
And we're going up there to stir!

I don't know. But as a wise man/woman once said:

Insulamia wrote:

After a long period of order, e.g. "Hello. My name is Inigo Montoya. You killed my father. Prepare to die", it only takes one slight deviance from the original text, e.g. "Greetings, fellow human. My name is Indigo Montana, and you are my father's killer. Prepare to cry.", for the chain to fall into a state of anarchy. From here, someone eventually sees a reply that is funny which they would like to repeat, and thus, order is restored, for however brief a period, and the cycle then restarts.

There is a difference between less and fewer. "Less" applies to things that can't be counted, for example, "less traffic", whilst "fewer" applies to things that can be counted, for example "fewer cars on the road". Saying "less cars on the road" is wrong. It's "fewer"

Arpasia, I don't think anyone wants to continue a chain of Zimbabwean version of "It's a Long Way to Tipperary". Go find some other material.

Aight, I heard it, it does indeed rock. However, it is within reason to assume that those on this thread would not like to copy a long bit of text that they do not find comedic value in. I'm not saying the song doesn't have comedic value, it's just most people wouldn't see it and thus not want to copy it and start a chain. Now go find some other material.

A chain is a serial assembly of connected pieces, called links, typically made of metal, with an overall character similar to that of a rope in that it is flexible and curved in compression but linear, rigid, and load-bearing in tension. A chain may consist of two or more links. Chains can be classified by their design, which can be dictated by their use.
