Perfectly legal, but you'll probably wind up getting blasted to bits before you even finish saying your demand.

Someone from the other side of the border throws a rock at YNs side. The rock goes over, hits one of your citizens, and kills or severely maims them.

The nation or territory on the other side of the border will be invaded, after which the Morality Police would search for the rock thrower and promptly execute them in public.

It's not a crime.

But our King has a dark sense of humor, and he deeply believes that propaganda can and must be fought with propaganda, what would lead him to discover those involved and reply it by drawing a vivid, detailed art of them being trampled to death by horses.

Buying a church (or any other religious temple) and using the original space (without tearing it down and building something else) for something completely profane, like a brothel, a love motel, a swing house, strip clubs and etc.?

Not a crime per se, but there are laws, depending on the province, riding, and municipality, that will penalize the establishment owner if what they're doing is considered unacceptable by the majority of the population.

AN: I am assuming "marijawana" is some weird spelling of "marijuana"... If it is not, I'm too ignorant to know what this is.

Not a crime, unless you are not paying the taxes that could apply to it... The cultivation of cannabis is not illegal in East Plate and its possession is also legal, even in very large numbers. A very large number of medicines use cannabis, while hemp is widely used for various manufactured goods including paper, rope and textiles. It is not uncommon to see cannabis cultivation fields in the Eastplatine countryside, in plain sight. The recreational use of cannabis is not really a thing in East Plate yet... while it certainly exists, it is reduced enough to just not be a matter of concern for the legislation, and therefore, it is largely unregulated as the plant is just seen as a "normal crop" with other usages.

So the committer along with their spouse and attempted spouse will be put into a fancy room with sad music playing where the spouse and attempted spouse will try to give reasons and convince the committer to come back/stay and the committer always has a hard time choosing so eventually a judge and a small jury come to choose for the committer (only if they cant decide within 48 hours) they usually pick the spouse and the attempted spouse gets no compensation. that is the punishment
