They are the 14th region, southeastern, of the Khilafah Islamiyah state. And if I'm not mistaken, they are not fond of atheism.

Everyone always uses the black market factbook...

Important Cultural ethics: https://www.nationstates.net/nation=the ... id=1199646

A theme that kinda fits the Empire's aesthetic:

I'm not the greatest at getting down all relevant information in a factbook so if anything needs clarifying or explaining just ask me in TG's.

The government has been authoritarian for centuries before the current leader, and people are used to it by now.

It's not completely banned, it's just not the main focus of the society (as some people assume when they see an anime girl on the banner).

Gender roles seem to alternate depending on the context.

"Women are typically more sexually aggressive and open than the men, who often come off as timid or shy."

In the entry it also says:

"Men are expected to exemplify strength, imperturbability, diligence, and intelligence and be more aggressive."

Also motorsports are common, which is surprising.

Imarssia was allied with the US during the revolution and experienced every significant political movement of the 20th century. Somehow, after being an Axis power and then a communist dictatorship a la Cuba, and then a civil war that restored the constitutional monarchy, they managed to become slightly more advanced than the US and Canada.

I'll clarify upon this in the factbook too as it was kinda vague, I mean in certain aspects such as passenger rail and internet quality. These are aspects that even the USA falls short on compared to other Western nations, despite the technologies being relatively simple to implement in practice (especially in a small country like Imarssia). This is as opposed to being technologically superior to its neighbors in most or all regards.

George Washington died during the French and Indian war, so Nicole Greenwich founded the country instead. Gerald M. Walker led the revolution. Greenwich was the first president and later became the head of the National Academy of Sciences. She introduced the metric system to Arcadia and wanted to develop the country's electrical infrastructure. However, she died of influenza in 1802.
