Easy, just join RP and use tech of RP.

Want to fight Roman legions, give your soldiers bronze daggers, etc.

Edit: Been denied RPs based on this prejudicial assumption on NS which I dare say is also Cliche.

Thought I'd just throw some nation styles I've noticed to be a tad bit cliché, I probably fall into a few of these..

Noticeably cliché but not crazy common: (One shot if you fall into any of these)

- Alternate 1900's Germany
- Overpowered Tech (Sort of me)
- Nations designed to be as evil as possible
- Animal Farm/Nations ran by animals
- Splatoon nations [Down 2 shots if your capital is Inkopolis]
- Some form of messed up Sweden
- "Deus Vult"/Crusader themed nations
- Furry nations
- Autarky yet modernized isolationist small island nations

Cliché but not THAT cliché: (Two shots for these)

- Confederate states of some sort
- FT Spacers (I fall into this category)
- Nordic takeover (I fall into this one too)
- Meme nations
- OP leader nations
- Utopian anarchy
- Pokémon nations
- 'Glitchy' flags [Down an extra shot if you have binary code in your factbook]
- Unexplained magical powers

Quite cliché: (Down a whole cup)

- Soviet nations
- Anime nations
- Nations with only a military factbook
- Catgirls

- The Kim-Jong-Success/Evil dictators with somehow spotless and obedient nations
- World superpower/Strongest nation in their universe (For me, on Earth yes. In space, no. I might down half a cup!)

Surprised I didn't fall into more of these clichés.

*Blanjiland isn't a messed up Sweden, but we do share a universe with one.

I think a good addition to this list would be world hegemon/superpower, whether it's economic/cultural/military, this nation seems to get special attention from other countries and follow their guidance blindly. Blanjiland falls under this category as its world's largest economy.

The inverse of this is also pretty common, with the cliché nation in question being pretty irrelevant on the world stage, but still gets overwhelming attention from their world's superpowers. I find this less annoying because this was basically the norm during the Cold War, but it's still a cliché nonetheless.

An Oligarchic state where the ultra-rich govern a nation of entrepreneurs and innovators. Just as corrupt, hedonistic and materialistic as you think, despite its progressive policies and emphasis on quality of life.

Decided to fill this out; six shots total:

OPTech (Vaguely, the Black Kingdom makes heavy use of magitech powered by primordial anti-magic ooze).

Evil Nations (Not deliberately, but I am deliberately designing TBK to be a brutal place).

Animal Farm (Bugs)

Deus Vult (I'm assuming crusaders? Yes, vaguely)

OP Leader(Leader is a God that's consumed their arch enemy and had their power level boosted beyond 9000)

An AU of Hollow Knight where the Ancient Civilization never fell, spawning a lovecraftian horror story of escalating terror and madness as the dark secrets beneath Hallowmest are slowly uncovered.

Let's see...

- I'd say sort of on the OP tech... I'd like to think that it's not OP, but contextually it probably is. I try to punch a little over my own weight by being strategic with deployment of technology, but that's sort of hard to gauge.
- Similarly, my country isn't designed to be as evil as possible, but it is supposed to be as evil (in a "paved with good intentions" kind of way) as I could actually justify being without being a moustache-twirling cartoon character.

-My leader is definitely OP at this point, if only because I haven't gotten around to getting some depth into the character. So, perfect by consequence of lack of thought-out flaws I guess...

-I'm not a Soviet nation anymore, but I did start out as a transparent soviet parody and I still retain some of the birthmarks of that, along with some convergences as a socialist country in a broadly Leninist tradition.

-Like my leader, I haven't gotten into a whole lot of depth into the opposition to my political system beyond "they exist" so everything looks a lot nicer than it would actually be because of that.
