All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

90 degrees here in Aurora Colorado. I want to go swimming soooo bad. Why do none of my neighbors have a pool I can break into? What inconsiderate assholes.

As far as I know I'm the only one who owns a firearm on the block aside from some weird drug dealers down the road. Then again better not chance it, huh? Perhaps I should just take a bath.

I wasn't even specifically thinking about the gun aspect. I was thinking about the fact breaking into peoples properly isn't exactly, you know, legal.

I do think breaking into a pool where I live would be scarier ☐ But then again, I think my house is one of the only one's that actually has a pool out here...

We don't have dogs to alert us of people invading anymore (I doubt someone would invade a country pool ☐), but there is a rooster in our backyard a lot...
