This current one is probably the worst so far. Not necessarily in terms of content but they're posting excessively large, rapidly flashing gifs that give me a headache and could potentially be seizure inducing for some people.

I think the pornspammer is just further proof that children NEED in person schooling to keep them out of trouble. I'm glad covid allowed us to conduct this experiment.

That didn't exactly stop the old New Zealand pornspammer.

Well I think it ultimately did but you know a spammer is bad when they literally report on him in the news.

I mean, it's a difficult decision for all involved. Sacrificing people's lives to keep the economy running and schooling normal isn't exactly an answer either.

Yeah, people getting buttmad that they got perm-banned and spamming the forums is literally nothing new.

(That's actually why people bring up 'new players panicking over porn spam' as a cliché because if you've been around the block here, you'll have seen this happen before.)
