"I'm nothing without you" Okay, this Helios album is off to a bad start. Pretty generic electronic dancy beat, with the only time I think Helios had singing...Not really doing me anything.

Though, when Helios went more, well..post-rock electronic, compared to his{?} fully electronic stuff, I found that kind of...snooze-worthy.

I have 5 bands I've listened through this week who are at almost exactly 50 Last.FM "Scrobble". Damn I've listened to way too much this week, and interesting how they're all so damn close...

Meanwhile, there's one with 100, 70, and 59 in there, as well.

For some reason, I can't stop listening to this song. I must've listened to it at least 20 times today.

Not bad, but still in that style I have a hard time liking.

I only listened to one Solstafir album, so the one I listened to might be quite a bit different then a lot of their.

In fact, I listened briefly to their new album and it didn't really appeal to me all that much, because it was a change that I just didn't personally get into.

Boris-Flood

70 minute song, which is pretty much the entire album. Though on the album it is split into 4 parts.

Going to sleep to this.

Boris is great.

I listened to one album of theirs, and I didn't really like the hard rock, but I dug their more drone, ambient, doom/drone metal type of stuff.

On that subject:

Listening to it again when I'm actually AT my computer and not going to sleep so I can hear the whole damned thing instead of like 10 minutes of it before I passed out.
