The Sentient Cars go on a race, with the sentient pillow cheering them on, and we move off from the apes and sentient boat and we in the meantime change our focus to a new Maniverse, with a man called Jerry, who really likes windows

A sentient clock on the 30th floor trying to see the building is scared to jump down, and then has an idea. He goes to a sentient elevator to ask him to carry him to the lobby, but it turns out that some acrophobic objects, such as a toy Ferrari 360 Modena, are in there too just as he enters it.

Sadly, a discord mod who was somehow managing to walk outside found the bread and ate it. The man from earlier is horrified, confused, and bumfuzzed.

The DHA, as a consequence of developing a new habit of spending long periods of time outside for the first time, quite literally touching grass, he also develops a growing connection with the natural world, even though he mostly sunbathes and digs holes in his backyard. He eventually loses weight significantly, and tosses his fedora in the dumpster in jubilation.
