No intent - public whipping or compensation of the victim's family or both.
With premeditation - equivalent to murder and will be punished by torturous public execution.

We're secular and religiously plural. We have members and customers from a variety of different religious beliefs and backgrounds while not showing official support for any one of them. The above "crime" isn't even possible.

Placing an open bounty on police officers? (E.g. saying you will pay anyone who kills a police officer.)

If someone actually did it under the impression that you would pay them, you'd be considered an accessory to murder. However, you would not be legally required to make good on payment, because the contract specifies an unlawful performance.
