Similar to our IRL Germany, The North German Confederation is one of the key members to European stability and peace despite at a lost of its empire in its past.

Edit: since my phone will die, I'm going to edit this like crazy.

Interesting note on the personnel count and the percentages.

Federal Army 400,000 Active, 42,312 Deployed.

Federal Navy 235,000 Active, 20,000 Deployed.

Federal Air Force 115,000 Active, 12,688 Deployed.

Interesting percentages, in the sense that they give a [10.578, 8.5106383, 11.033043] in terms of percentage ( # Deployed / # Active * 100 ), so I guess I learned that the Federal personnel more or less have 8-12% of their troops deployed at any one time.

Also of note is how they don't seem to have a rank of Private. The inverted-V ranks are instead used for Sergeants and higher, while the slanted bars (normally reserved for officers) are used for the lower ranks. At least, in comparison to RL Singapore, the Vs are used from Lance Corporals to Sergeants and Warrant Officers, while the Horizontal bars are for Officers (1-3 bars, from 2nd Lt, 1st Lt, Cpt.) Something for me to wonder about!

EDIT: I realised that they are Rank insignias of the German Bundeswehr. Ahh, TIL.

AN: The fact that they have a contingency plan to ensure their survival in the event of a disaster on an universe-scale. Seeds / ships that they can fire and move to other multiverses in order to find a new place or an universe to stay in. The only thing I can wonder is - what are the % survival rates of the seeds?

What if they went to multiverses where the laws of physics do not allow life at all? Are there preliminary analysers to make sure that you don't go to a dud universe?

It's a union of America, Canada, and Greenland. It's seems to favor science, logic, and reason above most things. For example, it instituted lofty science reforms in the 1960s, and a popular philosophy (or religion, its unclear, similar to Confucianism) within the nation relies on Natures Laws over traditional religious belief systems.

The tribes that would go on to form modern-day Adazegi actually are the Iberomausian and Capsian cultures. It is believed the Neolithic affected the course of these tribes - the proto-Adazegi tribes started developing and becoming more than just small, isolated communities during the late Bronze Age and the early Iron Age.

somehow is socialist but claims to tout civil liberty. those things are directly opposed in the sense that socialism's goal requires some level of repeal of civil liberty, I would like to learn more about their system as they are probably not actually socialist but simply call themselves as such.

A very interesting sort of union of other nations. I like the original way they do this, not a region, but a nation of it's own.
