Bestiality. (Having you know what with an animal)

Varies within the Commonwealth.

Heatherbrook Canton the punishment is 1 year probation and a 1 month wages fine to be paid to local animal shelters over the course of a year, to one year prison per animal abused.

Osaga State the punishment is 5 years hard labor, and remanded to a psychiatric institution until convict is deemed to no longer be a danger to society.

The Allemanary Region is the death penalty.

Joyriding in a stolen semi-truck and trailer laden with hazardous materials down the road in a high speed chase from police.

As long as they don't cause world war three or break the fragile Arab confederation(which reminds me to work on that), or do anything else illegal by the Geneva conventions, then it is not a crime to go shoot some deer and antelope across a dmz

Breaking the nonexistent peace in the middle east

Broccoli and Anchovies I can forgive, but Pineapple? Probably shutting down your business over false advertisement and a hefty fine. You can't have pineapple and claim it is a pizza.

if its sold a search warrant authorized by the government will commence to see if the alcohol abides by health codes and regulations. Otherwise 1 year in prison, 15 years of prison if it does not abide by health codes and regulations, no matter if it's sold or not.

genocide against chimpanzees?

Depending on the severity of the cruelty and the amount of animals wounded/dead 3-5 years in prison, forced psychiatric treatment and kill list, if repeated offense- death.

Dissent itself is not punishable, although if it happens in the military the offending soldier/officer may get court martialed and dishonorable discharged, which can be a serious problem considering military service is mandatory in Andronya.

Using a gun neglectfully.

Depends on what information and under what circumstances.
If the person agreed to his/her data being sold then there is no crime, otherwise, hefty fine, depending on the severity of the information itself.
