Unless there's a zebra crossing within 100 metres, then it's not considered a crime; otherwise, you could be looking at a small fine no less than $15 (depending on the location).

Legal with some restrictions. If you breach those restrictions, fines from $4000 to jail time for 10 years.

Not a crime. That said, if you're doing that on our turf, you'll be wanting to make sure you're paying us, and we'll be keeping a close eye on things to ensure it is run to our liking. (You better not be mistreating the sex workers, for example.) If not, we're not exactly nice to people trying to operate on our turf without our permission.

Said punishment for operating unauthorized on our turf, or otherwise not operating according to how we like, ranges from all sorts of methods of coercion. We'll start with a warning, and an easy out - pay up, follow our rules, and there will be no trouble. If that doesn't work: We might dig up some dirt on you and try blackmail. We might stop by for a visit to your family unannounced, and comment on how nice your family is (an implied but very serious threat, namely "we know where you live, where your family lives, and if you don't straighten up, we'll kill your family or sell them to humanoid traffickers"). We might attempt to buy the business outright, or use corrupt cops to harass you. If all else fails, we won't hesitate to make an example of you - killed and mutilated, with the body left out in public as a message to not cross us.

If it's the president it is more than normal, life term in prison if you talk ill of it.

If it's someone else outside of the president's family 8 to 16 years in prison.
