I feel like I read some really good satire, some parts are reasonable, but then comes the extreme turnaround of irrational. And I love it, there are actually some pretty good jokes in the factbooks too, like "freeing Islamic nation's of Islam"

At the moment, there isn't much to learn from, aside from a produce starting a revolution, which seems to be new take on commie rebellions.

Rapture City

- In the underwater city, two roles have emerged from the City's ongoing civil war: the City Monitors who defend the peace and the Red Caps who fight against unjust systems. The city's infrastructure is crumbling under its own weight and kinship is snuffed by the paranoia of totalitarianism. Yet the people would be in for a surprise as their virtual overlord have died many years ago as the oppression continues under his name...
- Not an 1-1 exact replica of Bioshock lore and Rapture City. Only the city's atmosphere and setting is maintained.

SilverNet seems to be an actual person, or rather, a software with intelligence. John Mercer himself asked WonderTech industries to build an AI that could defend Rapture and the Atlantic Ocean as a whole against what are denominated "Hostile Forces".

In the far future, the world is half-sunk, and everyone's mostly a squid now, and there are 4 superpowers with pretty flags.

Inkopolitia is one of the four major powers in a world with much of the present day landmass sunk.

It appears that all of their cities are on water, which leads me to believe that either A. Their land is a inhospitable wasteland, or B. They're a maritime people with heavy cultural and economic ties to the ocean.

The Free Arabian Nation and Oceania waged a war for Arabia, to see which nation could gain the territory. One of the battles of this war was the Battle of Egypt, which, amazingly, the FAN ended up winning. However, when the Arabian military tried to relocate the people of Cairo to other towns and cities, they were met with heavy resistance, the civilians seeing the Arabian troops as enslavers and oppressors. This ended up killing 200 Free Arabian military officials... Yikes.

Their years are 678 days long and split into 10 months and 67 days. Their Great Powers include Helium which seems to have an Indian Vibe, Zodanga which has a sort of East Asian vibe, and Kamtol which has a sort of Afro-Egyptian vibe.

Partially inspired by the Third Odyssey mod for EU4, this nation is essentially a Byzantine successor state in South America that has fused together Ancient Greek Religion with Greek Orthodox Christianity. It mixes the aesthetic of Byzantium and Ancient Greece, with very open and liberal social values but with an Imperial Monarchy. NS stats are referenced but are not strictly followed to a T.

The endless golems of the Blackforge are headed by a (presumably magic-powered) artificial intelligence known as Vehn, the Crafted. Despite being an artificial being, he stands on par with the leaders of Eisenstern as a member of the Council of Seven. Also, aside from being the Warmaster for the powerful Black Legion, he is also an accountant.

One of their most iconic indigenously-produced vehicles is a hybrid tank hunter and recon IFV, the design of which puts heavy emphasis on mobility, while still managing to mount a 105mm cannon. Huh. I'm starting to suspect that its armor is sub-par, then.

The Vozhd is advised by a council of Ministers, whose jurisdiction falls over their respective areas of control. The election of Ministers is a process confined to the upper echelons of government, and overseen by the Vozhd himself. The branches include the Ministers of War, Labour, Science, Education, Foreign Relations, Ecology, Finance, Industry, Tourism, Infrastructure, Interior, and Religion - though the last one is currently vacant.
