no matters if its a government official or a civilian, if you kill or horribly hurt someone while driving, you get from 7 to 20 years in jail. If done with the intent to kill however, it will count as murder / attempted murder, with a penalty of 20-30 years or life in jail.

Larceny?

If the countries aren't allies of ours, or us, then nothing. If they are our enemies, you can actually get paid for it. If neither, then nothing.

Killing the entire Supreme Court (or equivalent) of your country to avoid being charged?

Reactorland doesn't have an iguana population. But if we have, you just need to sign a license to kill which cost only 5 Metalcoins/MC (Around $2.50) which actually doubles as a fine and you can mount its head. Larger wild animals you kill will cost higher.

Killing an endangered cyprinid fish species? (We have lots of endemic fish species here, some of them became multiple species by adaptive radiation. You can skip this bracket but if you read it, thanks!)

If it's by a civilian, particularly those who have not completed military service or an individual who has not been in any military service for approximately ten years, then the penalty is a fine of 10k Lychans and a month in prison.

For those who are in the military, yet do it anyways, there is a reasonable expectation that the offender is very aware of the dangers of pointing lasers and similar tools/weapons at aeroplanes, as well as the dangers of blinding a civilian one. As such, the soldier is immediately demoted one level, or is dishonorable discharged if they are a conscript or a Private. As well as a fine of approximately half of their yearly military salary (This scales exponentially depending on the rank of the offender)

Just like any other murder, punished with 10 to 15 years of prison. There's no aggravation in crimes against minorities.
