Clementine Millicent Lizbeth Alex Cass Eirian:](#) What a charming gentleman you are, my friend. Hello there! I am Jamie, and it certainly is a pleasure to meet you! So, there are quite a few things that we definitely should talk about between each other, or what I think about you. So, first and foremost is your political opinions. Of course that is the first one to talk, because everyone talks about it here, it seems. I am quite positive on them overall, including the slightly against stance against democracy. We ourselves are an autocrat, contrary to what most people outside thinks of us! On with the second point, a lot of fantastic abilities as well. I would say that are a little overpowered, but then again, I am talking as someone who knows and is a close friend of a man who has too many abilities up his sleeves, along with Fate herself. Being able to defend yourself can't hurt that bad. Do remind me not to make you mad, lest I became a vessel for your magic-testing grounds and subsequently have my body die along with it! Well, that would be all for now, and I am Jamie once again, hm hm! I am quite positive on you, and I do hope we will meet again.

As for his statement on democracy... Here are my thoughts on it: The people in society can be educated, so they gain more wisdom. While those with merit and ability may be decadent assholes, who never care about their country. One of the reasons, why Roman Empire collapsed. Although, gotta admit, it's legacy still lives on. For example, Roman Law is a basis for many modern legal systems. Meanwhile, democracy is viable too, otherwise, it wouldn't be used anywhere. So this is all complex and would take hours to debate. No, such things usually take centuries to debate.

To be a wise leader, and to be seen by your people as such, is the highest honor, greater so than prestige in battle, and humility is its own reward. She is not your typical leader that just runs a country like almost everyone else here. she and her people are nomadic, they wander the lands and make do with what they can, either from the land or by raiding others, which, while not exactly a good thing, its just how things are in their way of life. Admittedly, sometimes the simple way of life can be very appealing to me. you aren't really chained down as much in comparison. Bush wearily sat outside of Le Patron's office as his mind drifted through many things in his life from his family back in Texas and the unfortunate circumstances he has ended up in Patagonia. He shakily grabbed a hold of hot coffee while awkwardly adjusting his glasses. It has been months since Le Patron's breakdown but the mood was off-puttingly silent from Le Patron's office. What if he found out the pact he had made with Skorzeny? Would he accuse him of making him a puppet of the US? Many thoughts pierced his mind and he became all the more anxious. That was until an aide of Le Patron summoned Bush to meet the man himself. Secretly armed with a PPK gun; Bush will make his move. Restraining the man was the only thing that matters...

"As they say, hard times forge great men. Great men make good times for all. Good times create weak men. Then weak men usher fort hard times. The cycle continues, Your Majesty. The US has persisted as an entity for years because they have a secure system above great men. A secure system of democracy and rule of law. Great men can't single-handedly secure a system after they are gone and a strong system will ensure that a nation will survive for a thousand years. I would like you to reconsider before us in the Pentagon will make the decision for you..."

WORD of The President

"He leads a right-wing military junta and centers his military title over his civilian title. At the very least that state is concerning and at worst terrifying. I find the belief he should not have to make statements of political note because his leadership is only an emergency one is irresponsible and lazy. It is his duty as the President of a country of 328,000,000 people to make his political line clear and unambiguous. Of course what is 'political' in his mind shows his bias. Clearly insulting the anti-racist progressive forces in his country whilst being a military dictator and thinking he has a right to be annoyed in such a specific situation is entirely apolitical.

The dossier seems to indicate he fears the wrath of his people. Good. That means the people's movement is powerful enough to be feared and influence government policy."

The President of the Federation, Secretary-General of the People's Party, Inteins Arek seems pretty honorable. Me and my committee support anyone who is against Capitalism or right wing extremism. "Convince to leave through violence? Call it what it is. Or are you too afraid of your own wars to name them as such? I do not need to give you my time, puppet-man. If the Soviets baught you with a few kindly-placed words after you'd spent so long fighting for independence, you do not deserve to rule. A leader should at least be committed to the cause they sent their own to bleed for. You have no honor if this is how you remember your dead. I have no more to say."

-It sure has been a while since Ari got righteously pissed at someone, huh?

Oswald's Status: Dealing with commies

"And so the words of Karl Marx manages to brainwash yet another victim into believing communism is the way to the future. The people of Vu Den Voc are damned to suffer with the man they chose to represent them. The future is becoming more bleak when communist dictators and killers rise up to overthrow and take control of their countries."

- His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the Imperial Fatherland, Oswald

AN:

"It is simple for one to dismiss Ari and her people as savage barbarians and godless pagans and leave it at that. Ari and her people are a solid culture but even a culture of proud and mighty nomads, professionals in raiding and looting, will eventually be outmatched by a force much stronger than they can handle. I do not deny she is a warrior, but even warriors are not immortal to time and death."
