Minimum three dozen lashes, possibly more depending on the significance of the landmark.

Sending someone unwanted lewd pictures of yourself?

This nation reflects some of my RL views, but with everything taken to the extreme.

As this falls under sexual harrassment (which is treated on case-by-case basis), the crime of sending unwarranted lewd picture of oneself could be up to 6 months in prison, OR fine not more than 1,500 maepals (or 900+ USD) OR community service up to 50 hours OR all three above.

It's kind of protected by freedom of speech, but that doesn't mean action will not be taken. If the rumor is not of illegal nature then it's a simple 500 dollar fine. If it is a rumor about the president committing an illegal activity then you will be contacted by a law enforcement officer for evidence to back up your rumor. If no evidence is given, the evidence is not legitimate, or you simply fail to reply your rumor will be scrubbed from the internet or the Department of Justice will release a statement saying no evidence was found supporting the claim, and you will be fined 2,000 dollars and told to never speak about the incident again. If the evidence is legitimate and the rumors turn out to be true, then the one who spread the rumor will privately be thanked, but the president will have a rough day.

All that typing to be Ninja'd

No punishment, infact the president may even laugh and turn up the volume.

It would be a ticket Triple the price of the cost of the poll so if it cost 10Pogs it would then be 30Pogs just to encourage people to instead just stop and pay the toll

Depends on whether he has a license and whether it's time of war or not. If he doesn't match any criteria allowing to own a firearm he'll be disarmed and under monitoring for 3 years.

Confiscation of the firearm, a fine of up to $15,000, and up to 15 days in prison. This is, of course, assuming that no other crimes have been committed with what is suspected to be the weapon.
