Time to continue scrobbling while actually listening to something different ☐

Scrobbling: ZZ Top - Que Lastima

Actually listening: Dethklok - Murmaider

To avoid confusion, from now on I will only post the song I'm actually listening to. Not listening to any of them fully, just quickly checking what I want to my phone.

Even back in the day when I enjoyed more boring post-rock than I do now, songs that are more interesting like this one still always managed to catch my attention more than the others. No wonder I ended up migrating to bands that were specifically more interesting in general. In fact, more interesting than most of this band...

There are the post-rock songs that are boring but still beautiful somehow, but Pele was just...boring.

The best part of this song is the guitar section that impersonates an air raid siren sound.

The Doors - The Changeling

*I had money, I had none
I had money, I had none
But I never been so broke
That I couldn't leave town*

*I'm a changeling
See me change
I'm a changeling
See me change*

One of the songs that describe me perfectly ☐
Aka, my theme song. One of them.

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.
