I keep seeing Death Grips being highly praised, and Electric Wizard being suggested a lot. I should check them out.

I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Whatever top 40 my upstairs roommate is listening to. I have no idea what it is, but his speakers way overpower my laptop speakers, and frankly sometimes it's just easier to give in to the prima donnas in the house.

Not sure if that's the song name or what...but whatever.

50-100 (60-120?) is the song name

01. is the track number, Oort is the name of the album.
