I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Kind of odd that I randomly decided to listen to Native American music on Independence Day...

Maybe I'm subconsciously trying to be rebellious. ☐

I think I'm subconsciously supporting your subconscious's rebellion by listening to a Russian band.

Iced Earth - Hold at All Costs

*Just a mile or so away
Is my dearest friend in this world.
He wears the Blue and I the Grey
And god it hurts me so
The last time we were together*

*I grabbed his hand and I pledged
If I ever draw my sword on you
May the good lord strike me dead.*
