You have to buy your neighbor three new chickens of his choice. You have to pay your neighbor some money to compenate him for emotional damages to him and his family. You have to pay a bribe too because that is how we roll.

Since such an undertaking would require more than just one individual working alone, the perpetrators would get to experience being surgically attached to one another, to make a human centipede of criminality.

Argh - ninja'd!

As the perpetrator apparently failed in their attempt to Defenestrate a cat, they will merely be referred for psychological evaluation.

A $50-200 fine.

Faking your own death after committing theft in order to escape your nation's custody, then escaping to Canada and raising a family there for seventeen years before getting caught.

Restitution for the theft. Reimbursement to the government for the cost of finding you. 17 years of interest on the theft. 17 years of unpaid taxes, with interest. A fine. A little community service. And the choice of either paying a bribe or doing some forced labor and prison time for being a pain in the butt.

Walking up to strangers and giving them passionate kisses.

Punishment varies based on the severity. In case of emotional abuse, the custodians would be fined and jailed. In case of physical abuse, the custodians would be fined, jailed or received the punishment of flogging not exceeding 20 whips. In case of sexual abuse, the custodians would be jailed and flogged not exceeding 50 whips.

In both physical and sexual abuse, the custodians will not be able to visit or be within 20 metres of the child until the child grows up at the age of 25. In all cases, the custodians will lose their custody of their child.

If the offense is committed by accident and without intention: No punishment, a warning at most

If the offense is committed without "malicious" intent or out of laziness, especially in a semi-private or non-crowded area: Warning, at most a fine not exceeding RS 75

If the offense is committed in a crowded area with "malicious" intent: Fine between RS 100 and RS 200. Up to two week's enrollment in the department's "Institution for Revolutionary Re-education and Rehabilitation", financed by the State

Identity theft?
