Their army uses psychological warfare in order to terrify and demoralize the enemy. That and their armor is scary. If I joined that army, I'd frequently be questioning if we were the baddies because of the uniforms.

The current Queen is mostly popular, but has been criticized for wanting more monarchical power and her lack of tactfulness.

The ruling Halloway dynasty has been in power for nearly 900 years, only interrupted by a 10-year socialist republic between the 1920s and 1930s. In modern times, the monarchy is fairly popular, though a fairly sizeable faction wants to bring back republicanism, while the current Queen has been accused of trying to consolidate the monarchy's power by lobbying and silencing dissent.

The space-based nation is divided into three layers. The first layer is 100 km to 500 km above Earth, with 20,000 space stations (most federal, residential, and agricultural stations). Orbits must be planned to avoid collisions, and there has only been one collision incident in 50 years. The second layer ranges from 500 km to 1000 km, and has stations manufacturing things from ships down to smaller goods. The third layer ranges from 1000 km to 1.5 million km, and holds a small number of automated stations and refueling depots for automated interplanetary vehicles. Luna is independent.
