Seeing as though we're a city-state made up of a bunch of habitats, we'll assume the second biggest habitat then. Mass terrorism and nuclear holocaust would make you the single most wanted person in the solar system. A vast amount of resources would be expended dedicated to your death.

Depends on how the independence claim is backed up. If it's just words, we'll keep enforcing our law through conventional means, if it's getting violent, time for riot police. Up to 20 years in prison for an attack on our territorial integrity.

Stealing a giant wheel of cheese?

You have to pay the owner three times the value of the cheese. You also have to eat it all within one day or else pay the owner 6 times the value of the cheese. These embarrassing cheese eating videos are shown in theaters to raise money for farm subsidies.

You get your buns paddled (unless like you are into that sort of thing). You have to pay for your neighbor to get new plants. You also have to pay some fines.

Ya' gonna have to return or compensate them. Plus, there is also a fine for that, which will go to the victim. Unofficially it could also additionally result in being punched or having one's plants stolen in retaliation.

That could be classified as assault, which can even lead to imprisonment. Not to mention, that parents won't be exactly pleased, so the perp will enter the court with several bruises and scars.

A restaraunt owner sneaks into rival restaraunt and puts roaches and rats in it's kitchen.
