Ew, stay away from Arizona like the plague. One of the worst states I'd say.

And you're living in the wrong country man.

Funny thing is, I've pondered doing the opposite...Moving somewhere like Iceland (Average temperature of 55 degrees...in summer). But I couldn't handle being that far away from family. I already feel like I'm too far away as is sometimes.

Stars of the Lid-A Meaningful Moment Through a (Meaningless) Process

I like this song title for some reason.

If you want to live in some of the most hot states in the US (Which have had some huge fires lately, mind you), next to the state in a serious drought right now (California), Norway doesn't seem like the right country to be living in ☐

First of all, fix'd. And second of all, just because I live in a country where winters are really cold, doesn't mean I couldn't handle high temperatures. Optimal temperature for me is 28C (82F). On my scale 15C (59F) is freezing ☐
Generally summers in Finland are way too cold and short, especially short.

80 is too warm for me. But it really depends where. 80 in California is nice. 80 up here sucks. 80 in Florida is hell on Earth.

55 to 65 with sun is good for me, too. Working in sunny weather at 70? Too warm. But 70 is okay overall. But I'd rather a 55 to 65 degree sunny day.

I think today was about 70 and it felt pretty nice.

I think New Mexico is a better state. The guy I voted on for President (Not Barack Obama or Mitt Romney) used to be the governor of that state and everyone loved him, so there's that.

Your scrobbling seems to behave weirdly.

Mine seems to generally work fine and I don't even have the webpage up right now.

Nope, it's intentional. I said I'm going to get the scrobbles "right". Which means that I'm scrobbling songs that weren't added when I created the account. I'm scrobbling them with Foobar2000, while doing actual listening with WMP. And "actual listening" as in listening to 15-30 seconds to determine which songs to add to my phone ☐

Last song, which is nearly 18 minutes long. Then I move onto the next 2 hour long album by them...

Gave the album a 8.5/10. Has some of the great ambiance ever. But I wouldn't say all the songs are amazing enough to warrant a 9. But that could change in the future is I migrate to specific ambient albums.

It's amazing how one subtle music instrument or sound done in a song (Repeatedly) can make a song sometimes. There's a certain sound in this song that, if removed, I probably wouldn't think it was as good. But with the added sound it becomes beautiful.
