All depends what is exactly defined as "emo" for me to have an opinion on how 'hot' they are.

Emo in music doesn't even really mean what it has been turned into. It is just a vocal style from what I've heard, not a specific music style of 'emo boys' (or girls) who dress up in dark clothes and put make-up on.

All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

hybrids, you made me laugh.

Some Emo/Scene/Goth chick can be good looking, but most of the time they don't look so nice. Today in the Supermarket the usual Emo group was visiting. The guys always look like they never shower and wear fedoras or cheesy hats and band T-shirt.

I think people like that, over the top doing a style, too much for me. Most of the time they listen to plebeian bands of that genre anyways.

I meant the good looking ones, because I find such appearances quite beautiful when done properly, and it's often an inspiration for how I aspire to be.

I don't care at all what music someone listens to.

Okay, some emos listen to emo music, but I've met far more non-emos who listened to emo music, which is one reason I categorize people based on their appearances and not their preferred genres. A person's chosen appearance is an expression of their inner selves. Music is what a person enjoys listening to, and not necessarily intended as an outward artistic expression of themselves as their appearance is.
