ah yes, the nation (then yugoslavia at the time, but not for long) that at the time was going through a bloody civil war and was straight up falling apart. truly one of the places to migrate to after your government gets themselves overthrown.

I'm very well aware, which is why the Russians went there to calm down what was happening. I'll write more about it in my factbooks eventually, but TL;DR...

The Russians go to Serbia after being overthrown. The Russians overtake the Serbian part of the crumbling nation during the war and use it to reinstate some level of order, as well as drafting a peace treaty sooner. This also resulted in the Balkan countries getting slightly different borders, including Serbia being slightly larger.
