My favorite song of all time.

Vaguely a pessimist, certainly an absurdist, unironically an antinatalist.

Actually, now that I remember what song this was, despite the fact I was dishing on Passion Pit earlier, this song worked extremely well in Little Big Planet 2. I couldn't even recognize it as Passion Pit because it was so different from the stuff I know from the radio.

That's from where I originally heard it and was just hooked. It went extremely well with the whole training section at DaVinci's Hideout, in Little Big Planet 2. Then I heard "Where I Come From" and wasn't too thrilled.

Little Big Planet is good at picking appropriately weird music for their games. Battles being in the first game for example. I knew that song before the game, but I was still like "These guys are so perfect for this game...". Both of the games have some pretty seriously weird music.

I think this whole album was filmed in Sigur Ros' studio. Jonsi is on one of the songs, and a couple of the songs I hear what sounds like Sigur Ros members talking at the end of the tracks.

Edit: Hah, filmed....I mean recorded.

At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

Goodness, I know. I think that's why I enjoy the games' soundtracks so much. They're full of weird, but very good music.

Battles is definitely one of those, Toumani Diabate's Orchestra is another one. Cafe Tacuba, in the first OTS, wasn't weird to me because I've heard them before. James Pants was another one I found weird but quite good.
