I have learned that AN is a bunch of nonedescrypt witches following their own original Pagan faith. I also do not understand their economy at all, just sounds a bit messy, but this is a learning thread, not a suggestion thread. Overall, pretty neat.

So uh... apparently the Rulzea, the sentient species of anthropomorphic rabbit things, can change fur color at will. (Which begs the question: can they blend in like chameleons?)

Also, the species managed to develop FTL tech but then warred and... literally nuked each other to the Stone Age. r.p.

They're literally a nation founded by niceguys and nicegirls. One of their faction is named "Normies" and they're the most stereotypical depiction of Twitter and TikTok.

i learned that manson sus

so uh north america's absolutely fucked, but funnily enough despite wallace being president it's not directly because of that. rather wallace was sacked and replaced by eisenhower's temporary junta government on congress' order as a result of his soviet ties. this led to the state making itself chonky, barry goldwater's anti-big-government campaign propelling him to office, and the civil rights act getting fucked as a result in order to comply with his more libertarian policies. and then the other wallace becomes president, with predictable results. the civil rights movement gets boned by his segregation now and forever policies, mlk gets a gun (sort of), his more militant "pals" definitely get guns, and shit goes horribly wrong. and now as a result there's an insurgency in the us for the end of segregation and the us' government is seriously considering trying to establish a surveillance state while battling both insurgents and a rogue arm of its own government under bush sr. so yeah, generally a clusterfuck.

an: apparently they had a coup of some kind and the current empress got the fuckin slave girl treatment by her own brother which is just kinda ew? and then she somehow forgave him for it, though i suppose absence makes the heart grow fonder and he's certainly absent now that he's been jfk'd and his brain's turned to pink mist scattering a parade float.

Their nation follows the so called "Airceltrian Model", which claims to be a new ideology that is neither wholly capitalist nor socialist but at closer inspection is really just social democracy.

Rulzea cannot change the color of their fur, but they can change the color of their natural bioluminescence! But they, like chameleons irl, use this color changing power for communication rather than camo. Also, you can't really tell because Galax hasn't updated their factbooks, but the war was less a war, and more a bunch of alien invasive animals who were super dangerous, and the Rulzea had to nuke in order to prevent total exterminations.

Hallmark of Airceltrian economy is that they borrow parts of both capitalist and socialist economic models. And Airceltria is ruled by two leaders, one is secular and one is religious.

The primary television broadcaster, the Waisnor Broadcasting Corporation, is funded via a combination of funding from the government and from advertisements, the latter of which make up most of its funding.

Kinda reminds me of the CBC and how they still have advertising despite being funded by the Canadian government.

Signaria is a semi-direct democracy, and is a federal state. Its parliament, unlike in most other countries, only deals with drafting bills and laws, and the general public in turn votes on them, a process that can be done online since 2014.

Their economy is literally a "Third Way" mixture of the two economic systems we know for a fact have failed anywhere they were tried- Free market Laissez-Faire capitalism and planned economy- and the result is, obviously, your average welfare state, coupled with the presense of "workers' councils" that don't exactly function in their normal socialist definition of the word.

The United States collapsed some time in the 1800s, and the only real remnant of the American Civil War left in the world is in Cuba, aka where the Confederate Remnants fled and where they stayed until they became what they were today.

Their version of the United States of America is a military junta that was formed after the previous government was overthrown in a coup d'état due to them enforcing the most strict form of 'isolationism' (if you could even call it that) imaginable, where there was no contact made with any foreign nations and American citizens were taught/brainwashed that they were literally the only country to exist.

Aikoland exists on three islands to the south of France, has a long history of monarchs on their islands, and are another Constitutional Monarchy (Constitutional Empire?) in Europe. Also they are not full members of the EU, which I thought was a nice little addition.
