I'll probably call him an Anarcesian [barbarian], which is a bit harsh. He is a decent emperor, though. I don't know him personally, but I think he might be into history. If he can help out those poor souls in need...

OFFICE OF THE PREMIER

Regarding Maximilianus Toletum of the Diarcesian Monarchy.

I hope the change Monsieur Toletum conducts doesn't get himself written in the pages of history. Apparently, unlike his more historical counterparts, Monsieur Toletum seems to have no interest in doing anything of note for his nation and his monarchy other than to go against the traditionalists. Perhaps he only assumed the throne to spite them?

Daletski's rise to power frankly doesn't make sense and the way he was doing it, would have justified the Russian State in a time of crisis to implement totalitarian measures to maintain unity and crackdown on separatist forces within its provinces. He would have been executed on the spot for treason against the Motherland. Yet, somehow, this did not happen. This confuses me and makes my heartache on this horrid future of a weak Russia to simply allow him to succeed from the Federation.

It would be a shame to see another autocrat fall into the hands of democracy and being a glorified figurehead as the clowns in parliament pillage the land meant for his subjects and not their nasty hands to lay waste too. However, looking further, I grow skeptical when willingly subjugating his vassals and foreign subjects to the tyranny of the majority but I shall refrain from this concern, and conclude that my overall assessment is positive.

PMT/Early FT - Decopunk. Zitrvgrad is a crowned republic in a planet somewhere else in the universe. The formerly wartorn nation keeps a facade of normalcy and order while enjoying the societal and cultural decadence that marks the new Roaring Twenties. The paranoid authoritarian government tries its best to uphold order in the face of uncertainty, while its people want nothing more than a breathing space. A deal that works, but maybe not in the long run. | My NS-Related Art | Hehe bad meme as flag
