In their universe, the Turks never managed to take Constantinople, and in fact they even offered to trade Constantinople for a reduction in taxes on the spice trade. Unsurprisingly, this deal was rejected by the Romans.

Not too much, considering 90% of their factbooks are empty or very basic character information, while the overview was a massive text wall on the history starting in the 6th century like god damn speedy that's a lot. I mean they've been around in some form since the 6th century.

I gotchu.

Their nation was formed when a group of UIJ ships and satellites disappeared through transport to the Nationstates multiverse. Here they would have to do battle with many foes while the fleet could recover after every battle. Fighting was their only means of restocking and losing the fleet meant nobody was going home.

THE CORPORATE REPUBLIC OF SYNNE INDUSTRIES

Contrary to popular belief it is neither corporate, nor a republic

But rather an autocratic hyperlibertarian archipelago of raving immortals amidst a shattered Earth where one in three nations could be considered a naval superpower.

"Sarathress is an An'Kazar, also known as a 'Technology Tyrant'. Many ages ago, they ruled the Milky Way Galaxy with an iron fist. Now they are but a shadow of their former strength, due to conflict with an offshoot of their own race. Those that remain work in the shadows, gathering about themselves networks of proxies with which to bring forces to bear against the still extant forces against which they fought so long ago."

So, basically spcae wizrds.

Their first King was a fry cook who only lasted for 3 years.

Hey, at least he didn't get killed by his sons satanic gay lover who was a horse.

Not a lot of Kings have that much luck.

Then again, said King was a fry cook in the 1900's.

So ya know, not along of gay satanist horses at that time.

First off: Valentine Z, whom someone had to skip.

In the Pre-Valentian era (AKA: Cold War went wrong). Technological development advanced significantly faster than in real life, awarding the Valentians technology that in our timeline we've just gotten around to understand and barely get to work, such as quantum computing, as well as sci-fi shiesh such as teleportation, sentient (albeit dumb) AIs, and the like.

Now, the actual AN:

Besides the obvious fact that they're the Roman Empire but in the present. It must also be noted that they expand further than the boundaries of the OG Roman empire even at its greatest extent.

While their military technology focuses on standard ballistic and explosive armaments in the majority of instances, they do field several experimental forms of what they call Hadron Focused Artillery, which appears to be a direct-energy Wunderwaffe, utilizing a poorly-defined grouping of subatomic particles, directed by a so-called "wonder element", to deconstruct metallic substances.
