I Heard It Through The Grapevine--C.C.R.

I just checked how long it was after listening for 6 minutes...FIVE MINUTES LEFT! I knew it was a long version of the song, but 11 minutes?! Wow.

I was just listening to a 19 minute song earlier ☐ Nowadays for me 11 minute songs don't sound that outrageous. Before I thought that was a really long song, though.

Did you just listen to that song, or have you heard it before? Either way, Sigur Ros is great.

I have, but I tend you usually only listen to Glosoli, Gobbledigook, Hoppipolla, and Inni Mer Syngur Vitleysingur (the title of the last probably sums up my personality the best).

The part at 3:18 still always gets me with it's awesomeness.

You guys got me in the mood for Sigur Ros again:P They are one of the few bands I can almost listen to at any time. Most bands I can only listen to at certain times, or every now and then. These guys? Almost always. Though, of course, they hit a point where it would be better if I listen to something new.

I have heard this, but thanks. It's not one of my favourites, but it's okay. I wasn't so keen on Jonsi as a solo artist. ☐

Heh, for me I love the band and his solo work. He's got a variety on his solo work and the band has a big variety as well. I mean, Gobbledigook (which is equally awesome) is quite different from Glosoli.

Now, for me, especially at around 6 minutes, is one of the most 'epic' songs I've ever heard. Untitled 7 is up there as well. Apparently I love the dark songs.

Speaking of epic.

Edit: My dad actually got my mom into this song and these guys too. The whole family has become Porcupine Tree fans, at least to an extent.

I love that song. Actually, I love that whole album. I bought a physical copy a few weeks ago.

These guys are strange. First they make atmospheric black metal. Then they make a folk album. Then they make a raw "true" black metal album. Then, with this album they make....electronic/ambient?

At least they try different things.

Well, when it comes to the 'untitled' lot, I like 1, but not really any of the others that much. I forgot that I was quite taken by Saegoplur about 3 years ago, but I hadn't heard it for ages. I was once obsessed and I did stand there in a local store about 2 months ago, debating over Valtari, Borgore's Misadventures in Dubstep, and What Did You Expect from The Vaccines?. I had a listen before of Valtari, but whilst it was okay, I was underwhelmed. I left with none of them in the end, though.

providence, godspeed you! black emperor

everything about the second half of this song is perfect we, unlike the bourgeoisie, have nothing to lose and therefore our expression will be the only honest one, our words will be the only challenging ones and our art will be the one revolutionary expression. We need new noise and new voices and new canvases to become something more than the last poets of a useless generation.

I'm going to have to buy some Porcupine Tree stuff at some point.

And really? I think I might need to check those guys out now. I love a band that tries different things and does a variety.

Of Monsters and Men-Little Talks.

This is another band I can actually listen to almost always. It's that type of 'relaxing' music (mostly Love Love Love and Dirty Paws) that's not technically the best, most epic music like the Porcupine Tree song, but it's the type of music I can listen to a lot without it getting old because I love a good relaxing song.
