And if you have to know, right this moment I'm listening to Sergei Taneyev's Oresteia Overture.

Huh, I thought page 1000 was when it got locked.

Now I'm really going back to old school Porcupine Tree. Now it's psychedelic rock and space rock. There seems to be a dramatic sound change from album 3 to album 4.

I don't like psychedelic rock too much.

I've really only scratched the surface on psychedelic rock and space rock, so I haven't really fully figured out how I like it. So far, I'm liking this Porcupine Tree stuff that sounds rather different, though. The other Space Rock and possibly psychedelic rock bands I know are Hydria Spacefolk and Ozric Tentacles, which both I haven't explored much yet.

Blaudzun - Heavy Flowers

Blaudzun seriously is the best artist from my country (the Netherlands). His second album Heavy Flowers is absolutely stunning. If you're into alternative/indie/folk music, check him out.

I looked him up on Spotify, and it's pretty good. Though, Heavy Flowers doesn't appear to be on Spotify, so that will take more work to listen to. Of the few songs I've heard, this is my favorite. Even though I enjoy it, I wouldn't say it's anywhere near my favorites, though, but it's enjoyable music.

Sigur Rós-Brennisteinn

Okay, so this new Sigur Ros song popped up, and I just coincidentally ran across it. It's quite different from anything I've heard from them, and it's awesome from what I've heard of it (my internets being slow). This is what I love about Sigur Ros: They are always evolving. Not sure why a new song is popping up, though, and it's moving on from their more ambient stuff. I think their next album is just supposed to be drastically different from the album they just made, so maybe it relates to that album.

Porcupine Tree-Moonloop

Not sure how this is 40 minutes long...because the versions of it I've seen are 8 minutes, 17 minutes, and 22 minutes long. Maybe it's a combination of the 17 minute and 22 minute long one? I have no clue.

Psychedelic? If you like Psychedelic stuff, you may like old Porcupine Tree then. It's psychedelic rock, space rock, and progressive rock, though back in those days progressive rock is a lot less noticeable part of their songs.

Quickly checked some of their songs. Must listen to more and better later. They're pretty much like Kingston Wall, you should check them if you like Porcupine Tree.

Structured like From the Void, first comes traditional doom, then drum solo, then doom continues. This is half the length of the original and much faster.

I haven't listened to their first and 2nd album yet (or the whole 3rd one), but album 4 and on to 5 seems to be when they get out of the psychedelic realm and into evolving into other stuff...which is good, because I like bands that evolve. And Steven Wilson is very much into evolving, and not staying stale. And I'll look into Kingston Wall as well.

A few examples of what they sound like from their 5th album to their 10th, where it's more progressive rock and progressive metal, though not entirely because they add a lot of other influences to their music. I think, so far, they've been great for a long time, but I definitely lean towards their newer albums. You have to like dark music to like them, though. At least, in the more recent stuff.
