Not quite sure how that would work... how was it mistakenly taken for rape? By who? If it was consensual... why would it get to the courts? There's too many questions. I suppose it boils down to this: the state has no business in what two consenting adults do inside walls.

Handling fish suspiciously is already a grievous crime, but to actually do something with it? The only punishment is death!

Let the colored dog's owner color whoever colored their dog. If the dog is a stray the police will color the criminal whatever color they painted the dog. If the dog has an owner, the owner chooses the color. On top of the already rough punishment a 100 dollar fine will be charged to the criminal.

Infringement of private property. It's a minimum of 10 years in jail, with possible aggravating penalties based on the equipment used and how long you've been spying on the person's home.
