Both the Deus Ex soundtracks are good. Yes, I said both because Invisible War doesn't count.

Just listening to this music gets my emotions going, and makes me think back to how absolutely fantastic this game was. Naughty Dog was great with the uncharted games. They were well made, great action games. But this game just brought them to an entirely new level of greatness.

I haven't really posted in this thread nearly as much as I used to, but yes, when I explore music I haven't listened to before I commonly post in here. Sometimes when listening to stuff I have listened to before, too.

I get TGs from lurkers thanking me for music I post which they liked, so if people like my posting here there's no reason for me not to post my music.

I never get Telegrams from lurkers. I discuss music here sometimes and give people suggestions, but never thank you's from lurkers in telegrams. My posting is just more because...silly pointless addictions while listening to music to rack up my post count?

Part of the reason for my posting here is because I don't see nearly enough Youtube links in this thread, so I do my part to fix that.

And I stopped posting YouTube links after my Favorites broke, and then never felt like going back to regularly posting links when it was fixed. But even when I posted links like crazy I never got any Telegrams.

This way makes it easier for me to multitask and post links at the same time.
