Clementine Hollie Samantha Zeta Harumi: Oooh, well, hello there, my little friend! It has been so long since I have been here, and I must say, certainly a pleasure to meet someone such as yourself! You seem to be running the nation rather well, if I have to say so myself. I am, of course, aware that it is somewhat difficult to make the rest of the world (or the other universes) follow our ways of leading and developing a nation, so I am not too hung up on the political side of things! I am not even that even political in the first place!

Anyway, I find you to be such a charming person, and that your tactics are definitely something to behold. A surprise defensive system seems to work wonderfully and yes, I do like that you are giving the opportunity and power to the lower and middle-class folks. After all, everyone deserves a chance, not to be bounded and constrained by materials and money alone! Trying to rely less on the mercenaries, that is something to praise about too! Soldiers of fortune can be quite a difficult bunch to work with, at least according to the history that has been fed onto me, along with whatever Gwen has told and shown me across the multiple worlds that I have visited with her. I do am a little worried that according to the information I have been given, you are somewhat of a manipulative person - its words, not mine! I wish you and your husband all the best in everything you do and hey, no matter what happens, or what we might have went through, I still think that you are a dear friend to me - provided you would like to be my friend, of course! I know it is a little difficult to take in the fact that I am, well, different from what a person would think of as another person, or an automaton, but I try my best! ♥ I am sure the divine awakening of yours is going to be a big help for years to come, or even decades. Maybe even centuries, if you are able to secure being immortal!

"Oh, so you're Minami. Secretary of the Democratic Socialist Party as well as a close confidante of the Premier. I don't know much about your politics to formulate an opinion. In fact, for me to give an opinion on the domestic situation of your country would be problematic for our relations. Yet rest, assured, as fellow socialist-in-arms, I approve of your government and policy."

"Hm, it's funny that you came from a family of privileged status to clamor for socialist policies but in the end of the day, people are not determined by their genes but rather content of their character. It is admirable that she knows her society's ailments and sought to fix it. Those in her position would comfortably drain wealth from the people like elite parasites. And it's always good to have close friends in government as the saying goes "keep your friends close" but seems like you're having a friendly rivalry or sorts with Charlotte. Becoming a rival to someone means that your friendship would be at a flux but let's hope it wouldn't get in the way of personal matters."

"Thus my overall opinion of Minami is positive. To be a social democrat, a democratic socialist, or a Marxist then it is up to them and for them to apply as how they see fit as long the people's welfare remains safeguarded."

"Regrettably, there is very little information available to me concerning Prince Aelin. What I am aware of is that he is skilled in the art of diplomacy, something ever-more important in our world as time goes on. I can perhaps relate to him here, as my role before becoming my island's sovereign was that of our main diplomat, among other things. For now my opinion on the prince must remain neutral, but I will revisit his file later in the hopes of learning more."

"A kitsune, huh? That's cool. I've only heard of them, and have not actually met one before. Although that might be because as seen they prefer to keep to themselves and not interact with foreigners. Probably for the reasons you have described in your profit, Priestess. Anyhow, I do support your modernization effort and limited willingness to communicate with the outside world. However, I raise concern over your refusal to join in an alliance with a strong nation that can help protect your people from malevolent forces that might want to do your people harm. I highly recommend establishing one so the worst doesn't come to pass, but at the same time I get your reasons to avoid being part of one as international politics is a mess and it's probably in your time being the start move to steer away from it. Overall, I'm positive on you, and wish you a swell day."

I'd joke that all you do is sit around all day and don't actually do anything, but it appears to me that actually is the case. Oh cry me a river, you got a tiny bit of fire on your face and now you're a loon who wants to spread peace. Sure, uniting the world is fine and all, and getting your species past such idiotic, primitive beliefs such as racism and homophobia is a big step. But you use such disgusting, weak, hollow methods. It would be better to have all the people holding back society killed by firing squad. In any event, thanks for uniting your pathetic planet, it will make assimilation into my empire that much easier, after I've conquered you. Seriously, you think a few meaningless words are going to change anything? The only thing that accomplishes anything is force, and the threat thereof. Just to prove this to you, after I've conquered your stupid fucking planet, Chariman Yamami-Romanova, I'll send you away to a little happy camp I'll have built just for you. The problem here? He is not the brightest one of that bunch, and his ongoing project has stuck in Mesozoic Era for a long while now, not to mention chasing the reenactment of Singularity like many others of his race -- severely WIP nations.

"His physical prowess and skills in the art of combat are admirable, to be sure. A leader that leads from the front is a leader fit to lead, after all. He is brash, but what else can you expect? He is young. Such experience will come with time."-Lord-General Sotorak, leader of New Albania

"I can say, with utter truehood, that I can give my aughting to the Here-General, if only for overliving the springfield that New Albaner politic seems to be, and truthfully as a crigman, there's something about him that you can't find among the lily-livered gewaled leaders, even if I myself hold ambight through wale."

"There is not much information on this figure- when did the parasites begin recognising the importance of intimacy?- but I shall say what I can.

Grace? Peace? Leader of the people? Living as a commoner? Ha, comme c'est drôle! As per usual for monarchs, he is out with his lover wasting money of the Tiers État on exorbitant luxuries and justifying imperialism towards other lands. Even if I do wish him well in his marriage with one of the same sex, I can't say the same for his policies or his backstory. Seriously, born on a stormy night? What's next, you created the cabin in which you were born with your own hands? Give me a break, imbécile!"
