AAN:

Prime Minister Lodewijk Houten

So I can finally make one of these opinion notes again. So who do I have talk about now? Jean V. Sabre? Communist president of America? What? One of the things I learned from the pre-war world is that the United States was very anti-communist. Especially their last president. Wait? Francois? You do come from a rather strange alternate universe Ms Sabre.

Ok so you enlisted in the US Airforce. An airforce that's probably bigger than our 10 turboprop and 1 jet aircraft. You were also part of a bomber crew. Then you were send to Vietnam to bomb stuff there? You also contemplated bombing civilians there, and decided to just... do it... ok. After your service was over after a long time without major bombing (luckily) you joined the communist party and hoped to one day become president.

After you joined, you radicalized a bunch of people because you don't believe they represent Franco thought enough? Where did this cult of personality for that Franco guy come from? But anyways, you wanted to become the next president, but then terrorists attacked some buildings, starting some war on terror.

So the president that you preceded was called Bush and he did some stupid things like the PATRIOT act? I don't know what that is, but it sounds a lot like some of the other authoritarian policies the United States before the war implemented. After you became president, you made things mostly worse. I mean, you do have some good ideas, like targeting mistreatment in companies. But then you strengthened the PATRIOT act and made everyone in the country angry. At least you respected the democratic process and peacefully resigned and left. You had good intentions but you know what they say about the road to hell. You may have been a bad president, but you are a good person. Maybe you could start building affordable houses and work in charity to help people, that will help you get back a lot of goodwill.

AN:

Prime Minister Lodewijk Houten

So what the hell am I reading. Flatworms? You made your leader a worm? Why? And your current one is authoritarian and hostile, but no-one can do anything about it because of "legal protection." Isn't it possible to do something about that worm within legal framework? How do you even know about its personality? Its just a little worm! Why did you made your constitutional monarch a little stupid worm? Are your brains smaller then that of the flatworm?! You know what... no. I refuse to keep talking about the worm. I'm leaving. Bye bye you dumb worm

You Terrans really don't know when to give up do you, the entire world is nuked and instead of dying and letting us harvest the planet you decide to live in some bunkers and feed of the decaying world. I get it the weather is nice but you are hiding in your suits not enjoying the radiation. As for why you would follow the ideology which lead to your current predicament is beyond me, maybe its time for change or maybe the radiation rotted your brain out who knows. With the way you are heading in 200 years you will probably nuke each other again and hopefully you will finally leave so we can get back to harvesting. We are 50 years behind schedule and its really bugging me. Overall can you just make a spaceship and go to the moon or something, you would be doing me a big favor.

He has spent much of his life in the military, waging war unceasingly, and it is not surprising that his philosophy would be derived from this experience. He exists to perpetuate war, turning his people into war machines, making war the only purpose of his entire civilisation as it strives to assimilate everything outside into the war machine. Why though, must we deny the LGBT+ community the sacrament of marriage? Because they love someone outside our normal sensibility? Makoevana must answer for his discrimination.

And yet, when the humans see a parasite - unworthy yet holding a hereditary position of power and the immense wealth associated with it - they cheer for her? They chant her name, not out of rage, but out of respect? It is almost saddening, to see a whole society rotten to the core like this. It isn't even her fault either, she is like a twig in a fast-flowing river - dragged along by the current. A true leader - someone truly worthy of holding the mantle of power and the responsibility thereof - would not allow themselves to be dragged along, instead, they would grasp the bank and haul themselves free.
