3-10 years of jail time, depending on the severity. Cynetia takes this very seriously, despite being a very irreligious country. It believes in preserving history to its finest.

Depends on what the person who is the target did. If they threw some eggs at their car, then the murderer will sent to a psychiatric hospital for extreme anger issues. If the target murdered, say, their child for example, then community service for 5 years and reminded that they should have informed the police. ~~if it was someone causing trouble for the government, they'll be 'jailed', then they are recruited into the BSI as an agent~~

Smashing a window?

Most windows in the Disorder are made out of incredibly durable 'shield glass', which also acts like a self-sealing force field. The stuff is regularly meters-thick. To actually succeed in smashing such a window, you're going to need some serious firepower. Attacking the Disorder like that will get you murdered by anarchists, literally for the good of all chaos.

However, leaving teeny insignificant dents in a window? Not a crime, even slightly. These windows are exposed to the rigors of drifting through space at 1% to 5% of lightspeed all the time, so they get resurfaced with the same routine convenience as flushing a toilet.

Self-defense is aight, not really that punishable. If not then like lots of years in prison. Unintentional? 5-10, maybe more. Intentional? Ooooh, 20-30?
