Bah, I, General Onox, will ignore that name's existence and simply call it a grande ram from now on! Anyhow, Daikan... I, General Onox, consider it a great animal, with the natural temperament directing it to destroying man and structure alike, while simply doing what it wants, which are character traits I, General Onox, really appreciate. A shame that the grande rams do not exist in my, General Onox's, World as I, General Onox, gladly would have wanted to try to ride one such steed myself, as General Onox! the royalist form of government. It runs contrary to even the basic logic of bourgeois "democracies", which pride themselves on their acceptance that all men are "equal". Why must ancestry dictate authority? Alexandra is most certainly a military woman, that much is commendable. But she has fought for the interventionist whims of an imperial state. Violence is not a universal good or ill: it very much depends on what end to which it is being used. This..... Mr. Turaniski is a... strange man, a communist vermin, and extremely arrogant to boot. Believing as if his birth was some kind of divine, Terra-shattering event, hah! Sorry to break it to you, Mr. Turaniski, but trillions are born every day, you are not special. Maybe his messed up ideas come from having such a horrible father. Huh. Anyway, Mr. Turaniski's mad ramblings seem to have only been tamed by a friend of his, too bad that friend didn't do more. Then, after some war, this fool made himself "Premier", more like dictator. He then had peaceful protestors killed. Why? Are you afraid of your citizens having a voice? He murdered his own mother because he couldn't handle anyone disagreeing with him

In conclusion, this man is an unstable, brutal totalitarian idiot, who should be destroyed in firebombing.

My personal thoughts concerning 'Arthur Longstreet'

Page 23

"I don't have much to say about Longstreet besides what he stands for and what he stands against. There is just one mention of his policy and that is it. The rest talks about his early life and his rise to power, and frankly, I came here to talk about the man and his other policies at the moment. I have many questions What exactly are his other policies besides this 'Commonwealth Act'? What are his future policies? What will those policies do? How will those policies affect his country, and what would the country look like? So many questions remain unanswered as of now."

Melding^[1] on His Caserly^[2] Majesty “Oswald I”

I must say, whenever I peer into the emptiness and see my own Fatherland take another shape, he somehow always becomes eerily twisted and unknown. Still, this “Germania” seems to be healing from a gruesome Worldcrig^[3], same as the Deochland^[4] I know, so I have some hope.

Moving on, His Caserly Majesty, Oswald the First of Germania, at least for the year 1931, is the young ruler of an unsteady land. To be crowned such at the unripe^[5] eld^[6] of 16—only after the untimely murder of his father and mother as well as the unlucky death of his eldfather^[7]—and then be foreseen^[8] to lead Germania through unclear times is a burden not many would bear without breaking. Though, why he would call himself “the First” even if a twithel^[9] has yet to come forth, I know not. And, as if it were Heaven itself forsaking this child for good, a Great Crig broke out at the same year of his crowning. For this all to happen in 1923, it withstands^[10] belief; however, I shall handle all that is written as sooth^[11].

That aside, I can see someone with room for greatness within His Majesty. As the English would say, he has some “rough edges”, but these can be smoothened with time and work. To be loved by his friends and feared by his foes is something many an olden king had worked so hard to reach but never could. Though, if I may say, the ownship^[12] that I aught^[13] the most with His Majesty would be his love for his kin, as a father and a husband. I have a wife and four daughters, and for their sake I would go through fire and brimstone. However, as much as he and I would want to believe that Crig should be aereworthy^[14], that is sadly something that cannot come to be as the clockwork of time presses forever onward. And to “love” God—he who has forsaken mankind to an orlay^[15] of stride^[16], sickness, and sadness—is naïveté at best.

Then again, why would His Majesty hearken to the words of a lowly old soldier as myself?

That is all.

Which is why he tries to make the good ones and be an honorable and fair leader... perhaps, this is because he knows the dangers of being tempted and corrupted with power. With obedient society, he has to limit and control himself.

His approach on super weapons is a double edged sword. Indeed, mass destruction weapons kill thousand of innocents and even if they can win a war, the price is just too high. But still, they also prevent total wars and help to keep potential enemies at bay, plus, the enemies are less likely to use these if they know, that there will be an exchange. Which is why, we have sworn to not use chemical or biological weapons, but we still have a nuclear arsenal ready. Besides, the development of "Wundervaffes" can also yield discoveries, that can be uses in all spheres of science. Not only war.

Shawn Bjornson.... a complex man... It's not every day a man gets drunk and becomes ruler, is it? His destruction of drug cartels in the land known as "Mexico" (sounds like old Messico) is commendable, and driving away radical islamists in Africa, a Terran continent, is also commendable. His dislike of conservatism, and love of drugs, alcohol, anarchy, and other hedonist things is less so. And while I may heavily disagree with his politics, he seems to be a decent leader who genuinely cares for his people and will lead them in warfare. So that's good. And a fondness for guns (even old kinetic ones) is something I can agree with! I've always stood for putting aside politics and finding the good within one. So, all in all, Shawn Bjornson seems like a decent fella who has principles (somewhat) and at least somewhat sticks to them

The concentration of such authority - that authority over countless worlds and stars - into an executive office and its associated faculties is by itself a dangerous thing. What is furthermore of a greater danger is when the office is a representative of the power of an immensely powerful oppressor-class: one that has consumed countless worlds in its rape and pillage of the cosmos. Longstreet is one such representative. He smiles, yet this is a madman's smile, a deeply broken man tainted by his motherless - and later fatherless - upbringing. His "patriotism" - hah! - and nationalist rhetoric only further serve as honey-sweet lies to the people, to disguise the rampant social atomisation wrought by the so-called "free" market he promotes. Furthermore, his relative youth to the rest of American politics has failed to yield revolutionary change. He has assimilated into the ranks of the geriatrics, nearing his fifties having brought nothing new to the political scheme.

Shame he wasn't on the boat with his younger brother when it sunk. One less imperialist sock-puppet can only be a good thing for the oppressed peoples of the world.

In the midst of a room-temperature cultural revolution that's lost its momentum, the Party carefully plans its next move. As the brittle bones of fragile empires begin to crack beneath their own weight, history's symphony reaches crescendo pitch. The future is all but certain.

Anatolysa..... ~~why is a man wearing a dress~~ hrm.. Well, you're religious, I gotta have some respect for a religious person. Growing up in Soviet Russia, the ancient Soviet Union eh? Well, I am glad your parents kept you away from their schools. I shudder to imagine Soviet Russia, honestly. Ah, conscription, yes, we have that, I served my turn, it was fun. Not sure why your parents never have you an address for you own home, honestly, but, it's good you found them. I can understand wanting independence, it is only natural. War, eh? Well, interesting, on Terra we fought a war against Soviet Russia, it started in 1982, the Third Great War. We won, thankfully. War itself is ugly, it is horrible. I'm not sure how on your... version, of Terra, the Soviets won, or why you invaded China. Strange.

Anyway, for something less ghastly as war, your political views, or lack thereof, are certainly interesting, and I do hope you do well in your version of Alaska. It's a shame you are trapped there, but, one most always hope, no?

Oh, thought I'd say this: Anatolysa is non-canon (unless you included the name in the post as a shitposty part, in which case... lmao), by the way. Don't worry, post's okay.

He is a decent, patriotic leader who has done a great job in dealing with the refugee crises. However, everyone involved must be held to the same standard as the work of the Refugee Crisis Commission of the World Assembly. My concern is that the Americans in general and Arthur in particular is not working as efficiently as he can be.

There is not much info about the guy but his nation has always had decent relations with my nation so i have nothing bad to say about him, which is a first. But his care for refugees dose annoy me a little bit. Also if you need some weapons i am willing to sell you some of our old equipment for a good price and just in case you are a ghost could you go to hell and stab my brother you would be doing me a good favor.

"Despite his claims to the contrary, it is very clear to me that the Archon is very much insane. He is an inept ruler with inept policies that result in ineptitude of the likes of which I have never seen, even from the Brampton administration."

News: Days after the coronation of Queen Rose I, fifteen Senators have mysteriously vanished after returning to the Capital from a conference in Christine City. Among them is Phillip "Fighting Phil" Paddock, the Chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee, who at 98 is the eldest member of the current Senate. President Hinterland issued a short statement of support, joined by Her Majesty the Queen, as the government has executed a number of orders to prioritize the search for the Senators.

A respectable man to say the least. Started off with the agriculture section, and grew to rule several republics in one life (or whatever they decide to call their nations) ; I bet even men like Cromwell would struggle with that severely! Seems also quite proud of both his government and country, always nice to see loyalty and patriotism!"
