I mean, we can actually create a mathematical definition for evolution in terms of the evolutionary algorithm and then write code to deal with abstract instances of evolution, which basically equates to mathematical proof that evolution works. All that remains is to show that biological systems replicate in such a way as to satisfy the minimal criteria required for evolution to apply to them, something which has already been adequately shown time and again. At this point, we've pretty much proven that not only can evolution happen, it pretty much must happen since it's basically impossible to prevent it from happening.

This band is definitely interesting but Aereogramme still remains my favorite of the recent post-rock bands I've gone through.

Doing the approach of "Tackle as many bands as possible" is better then going "I don't really feel like listening to this now....so I'll scroll through stuff to explore repeatedly until I find something I want to give a chance to". Makes me actually go through things.

I thought I was almost done with bands that have 20 songs, but then I found a few more that pretty much fit into that category, especially after I deleted a soundtrack that didn't need to be a part of the playlist
